Updated June 14, 2018

I'm a senior lecturer (assistant professor) at the Research School of Economics, ANU, Canberra. My research interests are in applied econometrics, microeconomics and computational methods; more specifically in structural estimation of dynamic models of individual and strategic choice, as well as market equilibrium models, with applications to labor economics, household finance and applied industrial organization.

Education

Ph.D. in Economics 2009
University of Oslo, Norway
"A dynamic structural analysis of health and retirement", supervisors prof. Steinar Strøm, director Erik Hernæs, committee: prof. John Rust, prof. Atle Seierstad, prof. Espen Bratberg

M.Sc. in Economics 2003
University of Oslo, Norway
"Quasi-dynamic forward-looking model for joint household retirement decision under AFP scheme", supervisor prof. Steinar Strøm

Candidate Sc. in Economic Cybernetics 2006
St.Petersburg State University, Russia
"Economic-mathematical models of households labor market behavior", in Russian, supervisor prof. Nikolai V. Hovanov

Specialist in Mathematical Economics 2001
St.Petersburg State University, Russia
"Combinatorial method for discrete resource allocation and its economic applications", in Russian, supervisor prof. Nikolai V. Hovanov (cum laude)
